

CHIEF STUDENT EDITOR'S NOTE

On behalf of the editorial board of ILI Law Review, I take this opportunity to introduce the Winter Issue of 2021. I would first like to thank the whole editorial board and faculty advisors for their continuous support even in such challenging times. The editorial team has been constantly refining the editorial process to ensure the most efficient and satisfying experience for both authors and reviewers. The hard labour of the editorial team has resulted in escalation of journal's reputation and visibility in the academic community in the short span of time.

I would like to express gratefulness to all our authors for their valuable contribution and would also like to acknowledge the generous help which both the authors and editorial team obtained from the peer-reviewers from time to time. Our team of reviewers is our backbone and they all deserve special mention for giving us their valuable time and helping ILI Law Review in achieving great milestones. The names of the reviewers are listed in the Acknowledgements to Reviewers on our main page.

In this issue, we are bringing for our readers, a diverse selection of stimulating articles from various scholars, legal professionals, and students. Around eighty five articles were considered by the editorial team for this issue, which went through three stages of screening process; initial screening, plagiarism test and blind peer reviews. As per ILILR's policy, the team followed a double blind peer review process for each entry where identity of authors and reviewers were not revealed to each other. For this winter issue, the entire review and revision process took around eight – nine months. The review process engaged around 114 subject experts and each entry went through two to three blind peer reviews. The entire review process is carefully structured so as to minimize possibility of bias, conflict and any competing interest. As per the policy of the journal, articles are processed on first come first served basis. Case comments, legislative comments and book reviews, on the other hand, are processed considering the relevancy of the content at the time of publication.

We are publishing this note in the interest of transparency and publication ethics. Date of receiving of each article is also given below to maintain the transparency further. The mentioned dates below are the dates when editorial committee received the manuscript at their official email id for the first time.
