SCREENING PROCESS

The ILILR Editorial Team works tirelessly to maintain the standards of the ILILR Journal. Each draft is screened thoroughly in three phases to ensure this:

1. An initial Internal Screening is conducted to ensure that the drafts submitted fulfil general appropriateness of work and the foundation of the paper is conceptually and theoretically fit. At this stage, the team also makes sure that the draft meets the basic requirements in terms of citation style, formatting, word limits etc.
2. The drafts then undergo Plagiarism Test; the maximum limit of similarity index allowed is 30%. The Authors are requested to make sure that this criteria is fulfilled before submission.
3. Subject to the above two tests, the approved drafts are then sent to an expert for Blind Peer Review. The expert evaluates the draft on various parameters, such as relevancy of topic, comprehensiveness, original contribution to existing knowledge, language, coherence etc., and the review report is shared with the author.

The whole process takes a minimum of at least 6 to 8 months depending on the influx of submissions. The Authors will be intimated at the end of each stage if modifications are required in the original draft. Final acceptance or rejection is subject to the above 3 tests.

TEXT FORMAT

The length of the manuscript should average as follows (all inclusive of footnotes):

- For Article – 6000 to 12000 words
- All Others (Case Comment/Book Review/Bill comment/Legislative comment etc.)
– 2000 to 6000 words

Manuscripts shall be formatted according to the following guidelines.

- It shall include an abstract of not more than 150 words.
- All citations shall be placed in foot-notes.
- Number less than 100 shall be spelt out unless they are a percent (e.g., 5percent).

- Uniform date format shall be used (e.g., August 15, 1947).
- Quotations: Quotations within a sentence must be enclosed in doublequotation marks (“ ”). A quotation within a quotation should be enclosed in single quotation marks (‘ ’).
- A quotation longer than three lines should be set out in a separate block indented from both the left and right margins. Do not enclose the quotation in quotation marks. A quotation is introduced with a colon (:), followed by reference in footnote.
- When referring to a section or article of a statute in the main text, the word ‘section’/ ‘article’ should neither be abbreviated nor capitalized. However, in the footnotes the section/ article should be abbreviated.

E.g. The Constitution of India, art. 30; The Indian Penal Code, s. 42.

USE OF FOOTNOTES

ILILR prefers footnotes (to end notes) because of the following reasons:

- To identify the source of quotations or paraphrases;
- To acknowledge indebtedness for words, phrases or ideas borrowed;
- To explain where additional evidence or commentary may be found;

- To provide additional material or discussion that is relevant but which would disrupt the flow of the text if it were included in the main text itself;
- To refer the reader to other parts of the paper; and
- To enable the reader to read the reference without having to turn to the end of the text which would otherwise tend to disrupt the flow of the text and hamper smooth reading.

CITATION FORMAT

The Institute has formulated a set pattern of citation (i.e., ILI Rules of Footnoting), which is followed in ILILR and various other publications of the Institute. The citation style in the articles and notes and comments submitted for publication in JILI shall be in conformity with the ILI Rules of footnoting available at www.ili.ac.in/cstyle.pdf.
